Public transport in Tbilisi

Main types of public transportation in Tbilisi

Tbilisi public transport includes: underground (metro), buses, yellow minibuses (also known as “marshutkas”) and taxi. Cash payments are accepted in public transports (except metro), however, you can buy a plastic card called as “Metro-Money” (which is used by most of the passengers) and top it up based on your needs. Deposit of amount on card is possible in any metro station and in express payment machines of “Bank of Georgia”. First trip with “Metro-Money” either in metro or bus costs 0.5 GEL and then for next hour and a half you can travel by bus and metro with free of charge. This discount does not apply to the yellow minibuses. An alternative of Metro-Money is a Mastercard of Bank of Georgia called “expresscard” – opening an account in Bank of Georgia is needed for getting this card.

The buses, metro and ropeways belong to the Tbilisi Transport Company and on its website (ttc.com.ge) you can find a journey planner, timetables and bus locations in real time. You can also download an app for both Android and iOS use all the functions that are available on their website.

The yellow minibuses (“marshutka”) provide a partially separated service and they belong to the independent company “Tbilisi Minibus”. In the minibuses, payment is available by Metro-Money but passengers also are allowed to pay in cash. Travel fees vary according to the routes of minibuses, for most of the routes it costs 0.8 GEL. During the day, from the second and subsequent travel on the minibuses, you will profit by paying discounted 0.65 GEL. You can search for routes and get more information regarding minibuses on the website of the company (www.tm.ge).

Inside the city center a taxi costs about 5-8 GEL. Besides that, you can use several mobile apps to pick up a taxi (e.g. Bolt (Taxify), Yandex Taxi, Maxim taxi).

You can find the specific routes from any point of the city using the above-mentioned websites of both Tbilisi Transport Company and Tbilisi Minibus.
